RUDMAN MAY BE JUST WHAT THE DOCTOR ORDERED...

After all of these years as an Observer on the scene we have come to the conclusion that the true linus test for almost any thing is to sit back and study the people that oppose whatever it is. When you get all the crowd sorted in "for it" and "agin it" groups you can pretty well bet the farm on whether it is good or otherwise.

The Grandma Rudman solution to the National Doffysht Disgrace appeared at first something designed to pass the buck by both the Congress and the Administration. It was obvious that neither side had the intestinal fortitude to wield the pruning knife to get Income and Out Go anywhere near the same. It looked more like a meal ax approach to the problem that defied reason insofar as the Government was concerned.

The dust ain't hardly settled after the Grandma Rudman skirmish until it appears the principal opposition to it

Block Quits As Secretary, Lyng Secretary-Runner

BY TED GOULDY.

Secretary of Agriculture John Block need his resignation effective Feb. 1. The rumor of Block's leaving his post for one that for many months has been in Washington and other circles. Block has reportedly been busy with the White House Staff on matters of agricultural matters and has been reported mutual for a time.

Block stated he was not going back to a farming operation in Illinois, saying his son was doing a great job of the diversified business. Block as to Block's plans are spread, but generally it is believed he has been laying the groundwork for seeking concerning exports and his son's contracting has given strength to his speculation.

Richard Lyng, a one time assistant culture secretary and a close friend of President Reagan, who served as commissioner of agriculture in California under then Governor Reagan, is considered the odds on favorite for the job. He has in the past expressed interest in the job of Secretary of Agriculture and undoubtedly be given strong en-

Fed Cattle Stronger, Hogs Moved Higher At Markets Monday

Market supplies of slaughter cattle and hogs were considerably smaller Monday at the Central Markets. Prices of fed steers and heifers were stronger with prices from firm to as much as 50¢ higher at most points. Those reporting lower prices generally were going back to last Monday for comparisons. Slaughter cows and bulls were also firm to stronger at most of these markets. Some improvements in the carcass beef trade helped move the limited offering of fed steers and heifers.

Hogs were higher by around 50¢ to $1 at most of the markets. Price trends, quotations on choice and prime steers

Observance of Texas Sesquicentennial, Strong Livestock Shows, Many Sales, Roundout Business, Entertainment Program

The 80th annual Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show will begin its 12-day run Jan. 22, and continue through Feb. 2, at the Will Rogers Memorial Complex in Fort Worth.

Shades of the past will be foremost at the livestock exhibition and its accompanying 23 performances of the World's Original Indoor Rodeo. The entire 1986 program has been compiled with the 150th birthday observance for the State of Texas.

The gala "Stampede and Howlout" celebration will be the first major event in Fort Worth to be presented as part of the Texas Sesquicentennial year.

Each performance of the rodeo in Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum will feature a segment, especially choreographed to depict segments of Texas history.

Featuring a wide range of talent by a number of professional showmen from Arizona and California, as well as native American Indians, the portrayals will make history "come alive" in flashbacks from the Old West when the cowboy was king, Longhorn cattle roamed wild on the prairies, and the pioneer, despite wrestling for a livelihood from a forbidding frontier, found time to enjoy life.

The elaborate staging, using colorful, specially designed costumes, will begin with a drastically different presentation of the opening rodeo ceremonies, a Sesquicentennial Grand Entry, and conclude with the exceptional finale and the last bull out of the bucking chute.

It recaptures some of the brilliance and entertainment phenomenon of the 1936 Texas Centennial observance here. A once-in-a-lifetime opportunity, those who attend the Stock Show Rodeo are sure to qualify the entertainment as a "must see" program.

This special Sesquicentennial extravaganza will be produced by Tad Griffith, whose late father, world-famous cowboy Dick Griffith, played a significant part in the Fort Worth Centennial.

Months of preparation will come to fruition as the paths of yesteryear are crossed with the elaborate staging of the most exciting and dramatic western production to his Fort Worth in the last 50 years.

A presentation of such magnitude seems a fitting tribute to Fort Worth, where indoor rodeo was first introduced in 1918, and has attained, through the years, world-wide recognition for trend-setting innovations and productions.

Heralding the beginning of Stock Show festivities will be the All-Western Parade through downtown Fort Worth on Saturday, Jan. 18. The parade, scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. at the Tarrant County Court House, will march south on Houston Street to West 7th Street, east to Main Street, then north to the Court House. Parade participants will include some 70 riding clubs from across the state, 25 North Central marching bands, and 85 horse-drawn vehicles, many being sponsored by area business firms.

Adding to the Western Heritage theme, motorized vehicles are not allowed in the lineup. Last year, more than 100,000 persons lined the streets to watch the two-day parade.

Livestock exhibition entries will number in excess of 15,000 head, featuring top quality animals from across the United States and several foreign countries. The purse and prize money for the livestock show and rodeo will be up wards of $300,000.

Daily judging will be conducted, beginning Tuesday, Jan. 21, and concluding on Sunday, Feb. 2. The judging schedule will include classes for beef cattle, horses, sheep, swine, dairy cattle and goats, donkeys, mules, poultry, rabbits and pigeons.

The livestock show, since 1944, has been held on the 100-acre Will Rogers Memorial Complex, offering over 42 acres of covered, all-weather judging and exhibit buildings. The complex is the largest municipally owned facility of its kind in the nation.

Founded in 1896, the Stock Show is the oldest continuously held livestock exposition in the nation. As a non-profit, educational organization, the show annually plies its profits into scholarship grants and improvement programs for the city owned complex. To date, more than $9 million has been utilized in various improvement projects.

A number of educational exhibits are planned for the 1986 show. The FFA Children's Barnyard, a favorite stop of thousands of Stock Show visitors, will be open daily during the show.

The Barnyard, housed in a building between one of the main show barns on the show grounds, will feature mother farm animals and their young and the educational exhibit, the AMPI Milking Parlor, between Cattle Barns 1 and 2, will afford visitors a view of modern techniques of dairy operation.

Included in the program are commercial exhibits, featuring products for farming and ranching, and things for better living. The show offers food and refreshments, and six acres of carnival midway with plenty of rides, games and excitement for the entire family.

During the show, a number of breeding cattle sales will be held along with the 80th Annual American Quarter Horse Sale. A highlight of the junior exhibitor show will be the Sale of Champions, featuring prize-winning animals from junior classes of steers, lambs, bar-

Train wreck, train wreck! That's what traders were yelling this week. And it's no wonder! The Dow Jones experienced its biggest one day drop in history on Wednesday, falling over 33 points on heavy volume. It's not just the stock market "bulls" that were being bloodied. There were also sharp losses in the livestock complex and the petroleum complex on the same day.

There was genuine panic in the markets this week. Traders keep searching for some new piece of news that will explain the falling prices, but there's none to be found. As I've said before, markets don't need news to go up or down, just the right kind of psychology.

To give you an idea of just how big a break the Dow had this week, let me put it in these terms. The stock index futures contracts fell just short of 1,000 points in one day. That's the equivalent of soybeans falling $1/bushel in one day or the cattle market dropping $11 in one day. Now you know why there was panic in the pits.

The cattle market is a mess! Actually the entire livestock complex is falling apart. Even though there is good wholesale movement of carcasses and boxed beef, both cash and futures prices continue to decline. Thus far I'd have to say that 1986 is a repeat of 1985.

My only advice for the Board of Trade markets is to treat all the markets as a trading affair. Buy the breaks and lighten up on the rallies. Keep in mind that there are soybean options as well as futures contracts. Either can be used, depending on your temperament and your pocketbook. But as always with the markets, use common sense and proper money management.

Which way from here? For the past several months I've been suggesting to readers of this column and to my subscribers that their approach to most markets should be one of caution. I have been very uncomfortable being a "bull" in any market. In some cases, I've looked pretty good with such advice, and in other cases that advice seemed "out of step" with what was going on in the marketplace.

During this time period I've suggested two things. First, that traders should view all markets that "rally" as selling opportunities. Second, it was my belief that all markets would be lower come spring than they are today. This approach has proven to be quite right and quite profitable. Therefore, continue to sell in all markets that "rally" and look for lower prices across the board come spring.

Following the Dow's recent setting of this past week, I heard several "experts" say that such a fall was "healthy" for the market. I know several traders that purchased stock index futures early Wednesday morning that did not feel "healthy" by the close of trading that day.

Trading Suggestions: 1. Aggressive traders should "bear" spread the cotton market. Buy Levant cotton and sell July cotton. Today that spread closed at 1.135. There's no reason that I can see for that spread to carry a premium of such magnitude.

2. Try the "short" side of the British Pound at the 148.00 level or higher. Lower crude oil prices could translate into a lower Pound.

Please remember that by the time you read this column in the newspaper, it is approximately two weeks old. And two weeks old in this business is definitely ancient history.

comes from those people who enjoy front row seats at the Public Money Trough. Yessir, those outfits we smilingly refer to as "Special Interests" are already howling like scalded dawgs long before they are anyone near feelin' th' cold steel of th' scalpel.

For instance, th' members of th' Burrocracy Unions are among th' earliest and loudest with claims th' automatic whacks on expenditures will wind th' country up further in debt and in a total wreck fiscally. Long time observations prove beyond a shadow of doubt that th' burrocraats are first and foremost agin anybody or anything that might skin a little of their cream.

Any suggestion that any economy can be enforced agin th' federal employees will surely bring howls and predictions that any fat trimmed off their budgets will surely burn down th' house and hasten th' End of th' World.

This idea is not limited to th' Burrocrats by any means. Even Pres. Reagan's White Household buddies are busy with off-the-record leaks about how bad this can be, also plantin' th' seeds with th' media that more tax money will be absolutely & positively necessary. Here agin our antenna detects influence from Special Interests, including defense suppliers.

On th' basis of th' early count on those for Gramm-Rudman and those agin it, we would say it probably has considerable merit and it will not, repeat WILL NOT, hasten th' End of th' World, if we give it a fair try.

Ever thine,
The Edditar.

P.S.: Uncle Dunk figgers now would be a good time for President Reagan to give those Federal Judges who are out on strike because they have been hauled into th' Social Security operation a dose of th' same he gave those Air Controllers. Fire 'em. We don't think you and me feel too sorry for these judges who make $78,000 to $83,000 per annum if they have to pony up Social Security like you and me do. It jist might be an opportunity to gish shed of some of those judges who are more inclined to make law, than interpret it, too. We suspect that Texas Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby was jist trying to slick a pin to those Teachers when he suggested that if they don't pass students who can go to higher education without special remedial training by colleges and universities. Hobby suggested school turnin' out inferior students reimburse th' state. Hobby knows the pocketbook is th' most tender spot on most folks. Including teachers. But, Bill, aint th' Big Problem been passing students who can't read, write or figger and in some cases don't even attend classes? This no pass, no pay idea would guarantee passing grades! It would also guarantee that teachers, includin' those in colleges and universities, would close their eyes to the failures and we would have even greater numbers of young folks with degrees runnin' around all over th' place and still functionally uneducated! - Thassell, Brothers!

These cattle have been selected to perform on East Texas pastures with minimal special care. They are truly cowman's cattle.

Why elephants don't make the best mothers.

Almost 90% of the cost for producing a weaned calf is eaten up by its mother. That's why elephant-sized cows run up elephant-sized feed bills—bills that take a big bite out of your profits.

At the USDA Meat Animal Research Center, tests have shown some large breeds need 30% more feed just to maintain body weight and raise a calf.

In fact, the amount of feed that carries 100 Angus-cross cows will feed only 77 elephant-sized crossbreeds. And the Angus-cross cows will wean more pounds of calf—13,000 pounds more.

When it comes to mothering ability, no beef breed equals Angus. Research proves that Angus cows have less calving trouble, regardless of the breed of sire. That translates into lower labor costs and fewer rebreeding problems.

Remember, performance and huge mature size seldom go hand in hand in this business. It's bigger profits you're after, not bigger cows. So turn to Angus...The Business Breed.

USDA Cautions Dairy Producers On New Program Rules

Washington, Jan. 9 (KRF) — USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service cautioned dairy producers today on rules that could affect eligibility for the dairy herd buy-out program.

In response to questions from the industry, ASCS warned producers program eligibility depends on whether owners can prove their herds were sold for slaughter or export. The rule's purpose is to guard against sales from the one producer to another, which would in effect allow herd ownership to merely change hands without reducing milk production, an ASCS official told Knight-Ridder Financial News.

The farm bill requires that producers interested in submitting bids to participate in the program must provide information on the size and composition of their herds during a base period and during the time the bid is submitted. Any changes could affect eligibility, so owners are warned to make sure they have proof their herds were slaughtered or exported, ASCS said.

The Six Beefmaster Essentials

Beefmasters have been developed on the philosophy that there are only six essential elements in a cow: Disposition, Weight, Fertility, Conformation, Hardiness, and Milk Production. Because they have been selected for years for these things, Beefmasters are rugged, practical cattle which do an excellent job on the range, in the feedlot and at the packinghouse.

Beefmaster Breeders Association for additional information.

World's Greatest Salesman Speaks At Brangus Convention

Dubbed as the world's greatest salesman, Joe Girard will join the International Brangus Breeders Association (IBBA) as the featured seminar speaker during their 36th annual convention in Houston, TX on February 18-21, 1986 at the convention headquarters, The Shamrock Hilton.

The noted motivational speaker and author, Girard has written How to Sell

Anything to Anybody, How to Sell Yourself and How to Sell Anything to Anybody (paperback).

Girard's life and career are the American dream come true. Born into poverty, he was a failure for 35 years before he developed a unique selling strategy that made him an outstanding producer and brought him wealth and national acclaim.

In 1977, Girard sold more automobiles and trucks for the 12th consecutive year on a one-to-one basis than anyone else in the world. "All my sales were retail," he states emphatically, "one car at a time." No salesman has ever held both the auto and truck world's title during the same year.

In 1978, Joe sold 1,435 cars and trucks, a world's record which may never be broken. Joe is the only salesman listed in the Guinness Book of World Records as the world's greatest salesman.

Girard's achievements have been written up in many national magazines and newspapers such as Newsweek, U.S.

A motor vehicle regulation instructs drivers in Liverpool, England "to enter the tunnel via an entrance and, after proceeding through the tunnel, to leave via an exit."

1986 Brangus Sire Summary Now Available

The 1986 Brangus Sire Summary published by the International Brangus Breeders' Association (IBBA) is now available according to IBBA Director of Performance Programs, Donja Lester. The second summary for the IBBA continues to be the only sire summary produced by any breed of Brahman influenced cattle. Four hundred and three bulls qualified for the 1986 summary which only accepts bulls with progeny records in the Brangus Herd Improvement Records (BHIR) program. The listed bulls were evaluated for performance in four traits: birth weight, weaning weight, yearling weight and milking ability of their daughters. The procedures used in both the 1985 and 1986 Brangus Sire Summary take into account every piece of performance information that is known about a bull, his progeny and his relatives. The incorporation of all known information is made possible by the development of the "animal model," the most advanced sire summary analysis technique available. The "animal model" was developed by Dr. Larry Benyshek and Dr. Keith Bortol of the University of Georgia, Athens and is now used to produce sire summaries for four breed breeds. The sire summary is an important tool in the improvement of performance traits and is available to enhance the selection of genetically superior cattle. Further information and a copy of the summary can be received from the IBBA, Donja Lester, 5750 Epsilon, San Antonio, TX 78249, phone 512/696-8231, at $10 per copy.

Brangus Growth Evident In 1985 Figures

Membership numbers for the International Brangus Breeders Association (IBBA) as 1985 year-end figures are posted. According to J.D. Morrow, IBBA Executive Vice-President, membership has reached an all time high of 2,788 members. Morrow stated that during the last decade the Brangus breed has become a very viable contributor to the beef cattle industry. Cattlemen throughout the world are recognizing the maternal strength of the Brangus female. The "Superbaldie" produced by Brangus bulls on English bred cows is the favorite of the feedlot and packing industry. Superior breeding stock is selling for a profit so new breeders are being attracted by the favorable economics. Concluding Morrow's statement he said, "If we continue our present priorities and progressive breeder guidance, the Brangus breed will soon become one of the industry's dominant breeds of cattle." Registrations and transfers remained steady over the past year keeping ahead of the adverse economy. The IBBA was founded in 1949 and has experienced a steady growth since that time. The registration figures for Brangus have more than doubled since 1979. Recently, the IBBA and Brangus Publications, Inc. moved into a uniquely (CONT. ON PAGE 14A)

AN INVITATION

We wish to invite the commercial cattleman, the registered breeder and the prospective purebred breeder to our 1986 Bull Sale.

The genetic improvements the Brangus breed has made in the last few years has astounded everyone, including many fellow cattlemen. This improvement has been accelerated with the use of embryo transfer and bull syndication. And breed, today's Brangus are second to none.

The year 1986 also marks Brinks 10th year of utilizing embryo transfer. By using this technique for ten years, it has enabled us to produce not just a few, but many outstanding bulls from our proven cow families. We, in turn, have been able to offer our best genetics to all Brangus breeders and the commercial cattlemen. The bulls offered in 1986 reflect this improvement.

Selling are 50 two-year-old Brangus and many quarterbred bulls. As always, you do not have to be a Brangus breeder to be welcome.

Sale Of Champions Saturday, Feb. 1

To assure success at the annual Sale of Champions at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, wide-based community support is an all-important factor.

Each year, some 700 business firms and individuals come forward with enthusiastic financial support for the auction to guarantee that youth exhibitors of prize-winning animals at the Stock Show will receive above market prices.
"Contributors are justifiably proud to be participants in this strong community endeavor," said W. R. Watt Jr., Stock Show president/manager.

A planning meeting of the 50-member Agricultural Development Fund steering committee of the Stock Show is held in December each year to chart a drive to raise $80,000 to benefit the Sale of Champions. The 1986 sale is scheduled at 10 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 1, in Barn 6 on the show grounds.

"Expressed support of our entire community, this committee, the Downtown Stock Show Auction Syndicate, and other interested persons each year assures a successful and rewarding sale for our young exhibitors," Watt said.
"Many youngsters use auction proceeds to further their education."

Tax-deductible donations to the Fund are used in the annual sale which each year generated an average gross of almost $561,000 with some 1500 prize-winning steers, lambs and barrows being sold.

The Agricultural Development Fund was established in 1944 to instill confidence and offer encouragement to young people with the hope they will remain involved in the vast areas of the agricultural business. Charles W. Needham and Jack W. Ferrill serve as co-chairmen of the Fund's steering committee.

Chuck Wagon Cooking from the old cattle trail drives will be demonstrated on the grounds the two weekends of the Stock Show.

The demonstration will be conducted by Ms. Jalyne Burkett, county extension agent for Tarrant County, and Mac McDaniels, well-known Texas chuck wagon cook.

Clark Featured Speaker At Livestock Appreciation Day

Texas State Rep. Jerry Clark of Bama will be the featured speaker at the annual Livestock Appreciation Day luncheon Jan. 30 at the Southwestern Exposition and Fair Stock Show.

Scheduled to begin at 11:45 a.m. in Round Up Inn on the show grounds, the program is sponsored by the Stock Show and the Fort Worth Farm and Ranch Club.

Rep. Clark has been described as a champion of Future Farmers of America and vocational education through legislative committees. One of his projects is an attempt to have vocational agricultural education declared a "curricular" program in the state's public schools.

He is involved in a number of youth and stock show related programs. As a youngster, Rep. Clark was active in FFA, and served as state president of the organization.

The speaker, who holds a degree in governmental communications from Lamar University at Beaumont, has served in the Texas Legislature since 1978. He represents District 20, which includes Jasper, Hardin and Western Jefferson Counties.

Rep. Clark serves on a number of legislative committees, including the Committee on Natural Resources, and committees dealing with energy sources.

A lifelong resident of Bama in southeast Texas, the speaker is an active agribusinessman. He operates a dairy farm and is a partner in his family's farm implement dealership.

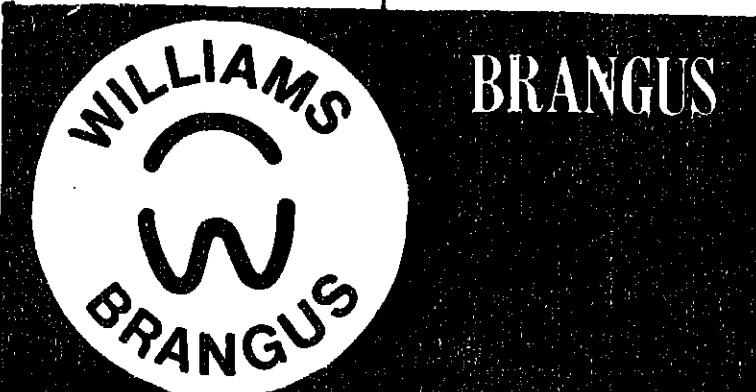

Tickets to the Livestock Appreciation Day luncheon are $15.00 each, and are available at the Stock Show office. Mail orders are being accepted at P.O. Box 150, Fort Worth, TX 76101.

Show's 'Stampede and Blowout' Celebrates Texas 150th Year

Shades of the past will be foremost at the 1986 Southwestern Exposition and Fair Stock Show, scheduled Jan. 22 through Feb. 2, at the Will Rogers Memorial Complex. Coupling the 90th anniversary edition of the show with the 150th birthday celebration of Texas, the program will be Fort Worth's first major event of the Sesquicentennial year.

Remember the Alamo? And Goliath? And San Jacinto? "Sure!" you say, "I saw the monuments." For those who were there in the early 1830's all these were real places. They were the Lexington and Concord for Texas, and serve as a remembrance of solid determination by a small group of people who believed in freedom as a way of life... a need to govern their own destiny.

WDA. They averaged 1289 lbs. at 365 days and also set a new record frame score. The get-of-sire entry was from Healey Brothers Flying L Ranch at Davis, Oklahoma.

They fought the elements of this vast land, and despite the many obstacles, they managed to survive and carve out of the wilderness a home where future generations could enjoy life and prosper.

A major part of this heritage to the Texan, as well as to the world, was the emergence of a hero - the Texas Cowboy. He became a symbol of America, a world-wide favorite hero, personifying a spirit of freedom... independence... generosity... friendship.

The vast plains gave birth to a major industry, known as the cattle business. There was plenty of grass and water, and natural shelter for running cattle. The winters were somewhat mild, and the long growing season was a benefit. The industry, especially following the Civil War, became a mainstay for the state.

lands, giving way to an abundance of production for domestic and export consumption.

The state's early boundaries extended well north into areas that are now parts of several of the southwestern states. Using this resource, the infant Texas sold thousands of acres outside its present borders to pay off debts. Texas is the only state of the union to have survived a time as an independent nation.

Texas and the nation took on a new perspective in 1901 when the Spilltop oil field was discovered in the south-east part of the state. The boom was alive, and led to another wealth as well as added international recognition. More positive means of transportation also became available.

With the industrial revolution, Texas began to get its share of large cities, but continued to contrast with vast open lands on which to carry out a basic agricultural production business. Urban living became a lifestyle for many Texans, but they still maintained their ties with the land and the resources underneath.

Crossing the paths of yesteryear, a young man working with Stock Show officials will bring to fruition an elaborate staging of the most exciting and dramatic western production to hit Fort Worth since the 1936 Texas Centennial. This special Sesquicentennial extravaganza will be produced by Tad Griffith, and have overtones of the 1986 event in which his later father, world-renowned trick rider and all-around cowboy Dick Griffith, played an important part.

Styled as "Stampede and Blowout," the glimpse of Texas history in a series of vignettes through the recollection of a Texas cowboy will be presented with exceptional costuming, special horses and riders, and talents from a large number of top professional showmen at each of the 28 performances of the World's Original Indoor Buller.

The color Griffith was born in Fort Worth, the son of Curley and Toots Griffith, trick and fancy riders of the late 1800's. Dick made his debut as an entertainer in the Fort Worth Rodeo's trick and fancy riding contest in 1919 - the second year of the indoor rodeo - at age 6. While still a teen-ager, he reaped honors for riding as well as becoming a top rider in the boys rail riding contest around the country.

In 1931, after the death of his father, Dick Griffith, who was living with his grandparents, sent in entry fee money to enter the trick and fancy riding contest at the Fort Worth Rodeo. When he arrived, much to his dismay, there was no contest as the rodeo had dropped the contest and contracted for the trick riders. Practically stranded, he rented his horse to one of the contractors, and with the money entered the bull riding contest.

He had ridden his share of calves, but never a bull. Unlabeled, Griffith, only 17, was the only bull rider to stay on all his stock and outdistanced the veterans by being named bull riding champion of the Fort Worth Rodeo.

Griffith was four times crowned the Rodeo Association of America world champion bull rider. He later was involved with the Cowboy's Turtle Association. When the Rodeo Cowboys Association was formed, Griffith was issued membership certificate No. 3, a card he held at his death on Aug. 10, 1984. At that time, he held the oldest membership card in the now Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association.

Dick Griffith was associated with Verne Elliott in 1936 when the big "Frontier Days" celebration was held in Fort Worth as part of the Texas Centennial. He starred as a trick and fancy rider, and was featured with a number of other entertainment acts that included a Paint Horse Square Dance quadrille, giving birth to part of Tad Griffith's 1986 Fort Worth extravaganza.

Tad Griffith, who was named for famous lady trick rider, Tad Lucas, who now lives in Fort Worth, and often provided Dick Griffith with horses and practice arenas during his years of performing, has drawn from the "Frontier Days" program of 1936 to make "History come alive" at this year's Fort Worth Stock Show Rodeo.

The precise pageantry of each of this rodeo's major production enhancements will be reminiscent of the Old West, when the cowboy was king, the Loughorn cattle ran wild, and the pioneer, despite wrestling for a livelihood from a forbidding frontier, found time to enjoy life.

Each performance here in Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum will begin with a drastically different presentation of the opening ceremonies with a Ses-quicentennial Grand Entry, and concludes with the last bull out of the backing chute.

Griffith's mother, Connie Griffith, has spent months and many hours designing each costume and supervising the hand sewing of each outfit. Especially trained animals will be brought here to add dimension to the presentation.

The cast, including a wide range of talent, will include specialty acts as well as native Texans to provide a portrayal of a variety of historical events that can be found throughout the first 150 years of Texas.

A presentation of such magnitude seems fitting tribute to Fort Worth, where indoor rodeo was first introduced in 1918 and has attained, through the years, world-wide recognition for trend-setting innovations and productions.

If you expect perfection from people, your whole life is a series of disappointments, grumblings and complaints. If, on the contrary, you pitch your expectations low, taking folks as the inefficient creatures which they are, you are frequently surprised by having their performance better than you had hoped.

A NEW ERA, A CONTINUOUS TRADITION, CONSTANT DEDICATION.

"Excellence in '85" was the catalyst of a new era in Polled Hereford history. The investment community, junior Polled Hereford members, and Polled Hereford breeders in twenty three states and three Canadian provinces joined the Pharris Team in a record setting event. It is with the same dedication that "Excellence '86" has been developed.

Hotline progeny have been dominant in the 1985 Sire Summary, in bull test centers, and in the show ring. Hotline calves dominated the 62nd National, the International Breeders Futurity and the 12th Junior National. In a continuing tradition "Excellence '86" will feature offspring from the source of Hotline genetics. Selling will be heifers bred to Hotline, Riser and Mainstream, the top of our 1985 calf crop and a selected few embryos and flushes from the Pharris Donors. The quality will again be the very best available.

We invite each of you to join us at the ranch for "Excellence '86," January 29, 1986 and the activities the evening before at the "International Extravaganza," featuring international cuisine and headliner entertainment. For more information and an invitation call our Hotline number 1-800-468-1239.

Santa Circuit By Buddy Smith

what is so special about that. Nothing except to her proud owners Double Circle Ranch, Drake Land and Cattle Company, and Cox Track W Ranch. The reason I bring it up is that people are always talking about the effects of the show road on cattle's fertility. She celebrated her birthday five days after calving. While she was celebrating, she was nursing her live, healthy, unassisted at birth, 102 pounds at birth, daughter of "Gatorade" 3502. She has a tremendous udder and cleaned up within six hours after she calved. Not bad for a two year old that made all of the major shows in 1985. It looks like the "Fator" - "Stretch" combination is going to work. The first time you see her, let me know what you think.

The Santa Circuit lost a great man and breeder when E. C. Schwabe died last month. I remember him and "Mama" Schwabe circling the dance floor at the South Texas Sale parties. I remember him on some fun quail hunts. I remember him as a breeder of good, sound, useful cattle, but most of all I remember him as a good man. The sympathy of all the breeders go out to the Schwabe family.

If you wonder how an old road founded cowboy stays in good graces at the house, look at the "Big Dunk" pictures on page 60 of the January issue of The Santa Gertrudis Journal.

Start making plans for the upcoming sales. There are going to be some good ones.

See you down the road.....

Gains. Why RALGRO® implants are making news in feedlot trials!

A recent independent study of finishing steers compared the effects of Synovex®-S implants and RALGRO implants on feedlot performance and carcass characteristics. This study represents the largest, most comprehensive cattle implant trial on record.

Research showed cattle implanted with RALGRO first, then reimplanted with RALGRO, to have gained more with greater feed efficiency than any of the other implant sequences tested. In fact, the RALGRO/RALGRO sequence's total gain in pounds per head was 12 pounds greater than the Synovex/Synovex implant sequence. The RALGRO sequence also had better feed efficiency over control animals as compared to the Synovex sequence.

Impressive results like these confirm what other studies have shown—RALGRO is the cattle implant of choice for finishing cattle. Contact your RALGRO representative for more information. Or, write or call RALGRO, P.O. Box 207, Terre Haute, IN 47808; phone 1-800-457-0871.

If You Raise Coastal For Hay Or Grazing... YOU NEED The Revolutionary PORCUPINE®

Or Porcupine Jr.
Here's how it works...

The "PORCUPINE" SOIL AERATOR is designed to promote better Grass growth. Greater soil water holding ability, better penetration of Fertilizer into the soil and prevent hardpan.

Simply use this tool to Aerate your pastures all during the year, especially before fertilizing. The SOIL AERATOR punches thousands of slits 4 to 5 1/2" deep into the soil thus permitting the Fertilizer to get down to the roots and not wash or blow away on topsoil. The pointed spikes are welded in a pattern on the unit to permit more soil penetration and maximum around "punching." This allows more water and moisture holding capacity for faster root growth. You can also attach harrows behind the SOIL AERATOR to break up cow chips and spread them at the same time... all this without any damage to the field, any new series or present growth. Wheels are mounted on the tongue of the unit for transportation of the AERATOR. Simply Jack it up and place the wheels under it for easy movement from pasture to pasture or ranch to ranch.

An 80 horsepower minimum tractor is recommended to pull the standard aerator. We also manufacture a smaller model of the Porcupine, which can be pulled with a 45 horsepower tractor. This model is 4 feet narrower in width, but has the same punching power as the standard Porcupine.

New Hoof Protection Great News For Horsemen

Hoof Bond, using the latest breakthrough in technology to form a flexible, intermolecular bond with the hoof wall, now provides hoof protection never before possible and promises to revolutionize hoof preventative maintenance. The maximum pressure a horse puts on his hoof is 3,000 lbs. per square inch. Hoof Bond has a tensile strength of 4,500 lbs. per square inch.

By actually becoming an integral part of the hoof wall, Hoof Bond strengthens the hoof and prevents the loss of vital electrolyte fluids in the hoof wall which can lead to cracking and splitting, as well as loss of elasticity in the hoof. Hoof Bond also seals out road salts and other corrosive agents along with excessive moisture which can lead to the weakening of the hoof wall. The formula is easily applied in liquid form, and when exposed to sun light, it cures in seconds to form a durable patina. Its long lasting action, requiring application only when the horse is trimmed, makes Hoof Bond practical and economical for preventative maintenance on all horses.

Through American technology it gives us great pleasure to state that a nail should never be driven into a horse's hoof, and a greater pleasure letting you, the veterinarian, the first to know our breakthrough.

Hoof Bond is manufactured by Hoof Bond, Inc., 724 Main Street, Hyannis, MA 02601, and is available through most veterinary suppliers.

AARP Names Winner Of Preventive Medicine Award

Buffalo, NY - The American Association of Bovine Practitioners (AABP) has named Dee Griffin, DVM, winner of the AABP "Award for Excellence in Preventive Veterinary Medicine" for beef cattle. The award is sponsored by MSD AGVET, a division of Merck & Co., Inc., Rahway, NJ.

Dr. Griffin, Hitch Enterprises, Guyton, OK, was recognized by AABP for the herd health management programs he designed for beef producers and for pioneering studies in residue avoidance. The award was presented to Dr. Griffin by AABP president Neil Anderson, DVM, and Thomas McClintock, director of animal health marketing for MSD AGVET, at the annual AARP meeting.

Herd health programs have been developed by Dr. Griffin for both cow-calf and stocker-feeder operations. The basic treatment program is tailored for each operation using necropsy and laboratory results. In addition to designing and implementing health programs, he places heavy emphasis on client education by providing informational programs both on an individual and group basis.

Dr. Griffin has established a pilot program with the USDA known as the "Quality Assurance Program" to monitor antibiotic residue. He is also affiliated with Oklahoma State University in several research and internship programs.

In recognition of his work in preventive veterinary medicine with beef cattle, Dr. Griffin received a specially designed plaque symbolizing the concept of preventive medicine. Two scholarships in the amount of $750 each, sponsored by MSD AGVET, have been established in honor of Dr. Griffin at Purdue University and Oklahoma State University.

The award for "Excellence in Preventive Veterinary Medicine" was instituted by MSD AGVET to provide greater recognition for preventive medicine and the outstanding efforts of AABP members. Through this annual awards program, MSD AGVET provides a continuing wealth of new ideas for planning, design and implementation of preventive medical programs.

Sulfur Fertilization May Improve Livestock Performance

and sheep producers, should be quite interested in improved digestibility and N utilization because it can have important effects on milk production and feed efficiency," comments Allen.

Choosing the sulfur source

When choosing a sulfur fertilizer, growers should first consider other nutrient needs. Many sulfur sources available today also contain nitrogen or potassium. Examples are ammonium sulfate (21-0-0-24S) and potassium-magnesium sulfate (0-6-22-22S-11Mg).

"If you need both nitrogen and sulfur, a fertilizer like ammonium sulfate would probably be your best buy," says Tom Hemphill, agronomist with Allied Corporation. Ammonium sulfate can be used in either dry or liquid fertilizer programs.

Hemphill points out that ammonium sulfate contains sulfur in the sulfate form, the only form that crop roots can take up and utilize. As a result, the sulfur found in ammonium sulfate can be taken up by the crop more quickly than the elemental form, which needs up to several weeks — or even months — to convert into the sulfate form for uptake.

Gehl Introduces Skid Loader With 2,050-Lb. Load Capacity

West Bend, WI — Gehl Company has added "strength at the top" of its full-line of industrial skid loaders with the introduction of its new Model 6620. With an SAE lift rating of 2,050 lbs., a lift height of 123 in. and a reach of 36 in., it's the biggest in the Gehl lineup, which now includes models with capacities ranging from 750 lbs. to 2,050 lbs.

"The hydraulic system on the 6620 is designed to handle increased load capacity with all the versatility that Gehl skid loaders are famous for," says Dennis Kruepke, skid loader product manager. "You can't match it for maneuverability. It can carry large loads through tight places, spin around in a circle in narrow working areas. And, with a full ten inches of ground clearance, you can operate it even over ground clutter."

"When the job calls for trenching or excavating, Gehl's quick attachment change system lets you quickly convert from bucket to backhoe. With Servo Assist hydraulics, you have fingertip control for easy maneuvering even in hard-to-get-at locations. So you can complete trenching and excavating jobs without damaging adjacent trees, shrubbery or fixed installations."

The Gehl 6620 is equipped with a new dual purpose safety bar that provides the operator with a secondary restraint as well as a comfortable arm rest. "This feature reduces operator fatigue considerably, as well as being an extra safety."

AVOID CHANGING WELL LEATHERS FOR MANY YEARS

Perma-cups are molded urethane, more wear resistant than nylon. Perma-cups will outlast leathers 10 to 1. Their tapered design allows only 1/8" wearing, instead of 5/8" of a leather. Much less friction for easier pumping extends cylinder life greatly. Perma-cups must be used in a good or new cylinder, as they do not swell. Install Urethane Perma-cups, Urethane Check-balls, and Urethane Pump Rod-guides, and don't pull that well for many years. Thousands are in wells that have not been relined in 9 years! All are available in standard cylinder and pipe sizes. Write or call for our catalog. We ship same day order is received. Serving Farm and Ranch Since 1950.

1. Lacks reproductive glands when it's born.
2. Maintenance exceeds milk production.
3. Bad hooves.

The average herd on the east coast is seventy-two (72) cows, forty (40) being milked. The dairyman spends up to three thousand, six hundred ($3,600.00) dollars on hoof problems to the veterinarian, and loses one and a half (1 1/2) cows per year, at an approximate cost of one thousand, five hundred ($1,500.00) dollars per year. If the dairy cows' hooves have cracks or discomfort, which occurs in twenty-four per cent (24%) to twenty-six per cent (26%) of the herd, the dairyman loses ten percent (10%) to fifty per cent (50%) milk production.

If the hoofs are bonded when the dairy cows are trimmed, which occurs twice a year, up to eleven thousand, two hundred ($11,200.00) dollars can be put back into the dairyman's pocket.

Hoof Bond is manufactured by Hoof Bond, Inc., 724 Main Street, Hyannis, MA 02601 — and is available through most leading suppliers. In Canada, Hoof Bond is being distributed by — Canadian Packers and Griffith Saddlery & Leather.

Gain Advantages Of Legumes BY Overseeding Into Grass Pastures

Producers who want to give a shot of life to sagging grass pastures should consider renovation with a legume, advises William Templeton, former director, U.S. regional pasture research laboratory, USDA.

There are three advantages to such rejuvenation, says Templeton. It increases forage production, improves forage quality and eliminates the need for nitrogen fertilizer.

"Using a deep-rooted legume such as alfalfa in the mixture with grass commonly produces forage yields equal to those of pure grass that receives 200 to 300 lb. of more per acre of annual nitrogen," Templeton points out. "What's more, crude protein in the harvested forage of an alfalfa-grass mixture may equal that in grass receiving even more nitrogen . . . 300 to 400 lb."

Templeton says the carrying capacity of legume-grass mixtures may be lower than that of grass pastures receiving very high rates of N, but considering the cost of the N, the grass-legume mixtures may be equal in profitability.

The forage specialist notes that grasses fertilized with N are easier to manage but says the extra cost is a high price to pay.

He says legume-grass mixtures need no nitrogen if managed properly. In fact, nitrogen application shortens the life of legumes.

According to Templeton, high quality forages are highly digestible, can be consumed in large quantities and are utilized efficiently. Most legumes are superior to grasses in these respects.

In addition, legumes forages contain greater concentrations of calcium, magnesium and certain other minerals. That all translates into better animal performance — improved gains, increased milk production and, in some cases, superior reproduction.

In British research projects, animals grazing legumes or grass-legumes had higher gains in 36 of 43 comparisons. Florida testing showed there was better combining the hay rather than brushing through it. "The individual tines walk around rocks and other obstacles and go into depressions to get all the hay, even on the roughest ground," says Phillips. "The closely spaced tines rake from center holes, eliminating wind break effect, allowing dust to drift through. They flex along their entire length. As a result, they last much longer than short-tined tines," Phillips notes. "And no necessary wind guards are required to prevent crops from tangling around the wheel hubs."

Phillips emphasizes that the spring-loaded fingerwheels follow the contours of the ground and pendulate to each other and of the main frame. This design feature greatly reduces extreme "bouncing" at high speed.

Raking width and transport adjustments are made by positioning the drawbar and the left hand wheel. Adjustments can be made on the rake drawbar to position the rake behind the tractor. And four wheel settings provide a choice of raking widths.

A hydraulic cylinder, operated from the tractor seat, raises all fingerwheels to transport position or lowers them to working position. All wheels lower and raise at the same time.

Two models are available: one with seven fingerwheels and a raking width of 12 feet; and one with nine fingerwheels with a raking width of 16 feet.

For additional information on the new Model 207 fingerwheel hay rake, contact Richard Buckard, Gehl Company, West Bend, WI 53095, (414) 334-9461.

ter economy of beef production on clover-grass pasture fertilized at a moderate level (500 lb. per acre annually of 0-12-12) than on more heavily fertilized clover-grass pasture and markedly better than on all-grass pastures. It also showed a higher weaning percentage (84% versus 64%) on the clover-grass pastures.

Purdue research found a higher conception rate (92% versus 72%) for cows on fescue-clover in contrast to those on pure fescue.

Further, the average daily gain of the calves was higher on the mixture (1.83 lb. versus 1.28 lb.) weaning weights were up substantially (428 lb. versus 353 lb.).

Technology has made it easier to renovate grass pastures with legumes, notes Templeton. He says alfalfa, red and white clover and birdsfoot trefoil are the most commonly used legumes with cool-season perennial grasses. Red and white clovers are the easiest to establish, followed by birdsfoot trefoil and then alfalfa.

Although the ideal pH varies among temperate-climate legumes, a range of 6.3 to 6.8 is reasonable.

Legumes require more available potassium (K) than do grasses, says

Templeton. Further, legumes growing with grasses are more likely to show K-deficiency symptoms than pure stands of legume. Since grasses have greater ability to absorb K from the soil, forage legumes are sensitive to shade and thus when legumes are introduced into thick stands of grass, it's necessary to reduce the shading by the grass. That can be done by herbicide, or by close grazing.

Templeton says a tool called a Fuert flexible tine harrow works well for scarifying a pasture that needs renovation. (The Fuert harrow has a series of 3-inch long tines linked together in a blanket-like design. It has no rigid frame, as do most harrows, and thus snakes over the contours of the ground.) It prepares an effective seedbed without disturbing existing healthy growth.

As for time of seeding, Templeton suggests late winter and early spring broadcasts. Alfalfa is the best choice for hay or stage in much of the country. But that crop requires well-drained soil and a proper pH level.

Red clover is more tolerant of wet soils than is alfalfa and birdsfoot trefoil even more so. Both are also more tolerant of acidity.

Once established, properly fertilized and managed legume-grass pastures are highly productive and easily carry a cow and calf per acre during much of the growing season, says Templeton. "But manure accumulates and that causes spotty grazing," he points out. "A flexible harrow can distribute the manure and its nutrients, improving the uniformity and quality of grazing."

A USDA report from Beltsville, Maryland, reads: "In summary, it appears the use of a flexible tine harrow shows considerable promise for reducing the losses of feed lost due to cattle droppings."

Free Brochure Talks Pinkeye/Fly defense

St. Joseph, Mo. — A free brochure now available from Anchor Animal Health discusses producer strategies for fly control and pinkeye prevention.

Pinkeye and horn flies are estimated to cost the U.S. cattle industry about $1 billion annually. In an individual operation, the problems can destroy narrow profit margins.

The brochure covers problem identification, costs, products and customized programs. New tools such as the chorio's combination pinkeye vaccines and EAR FORCE tags are highlighted. Use of odor tools, such as dust bags, for controlling insect resistance also is explained.

Free copies are available from Anchor Animal Health dealers or by writing: Control Strategies, Anchor Animal Health, 2621 North Bell Highway, St. Joseph, MO 64502.

Remember Humphrey, the wrong way whale? Everybody thought he was such a dummy. I'd give a lot to know the name of his publicity agent. On second thought, I think I know and it's made me start paying closer attention in church.

I'm not the only one who thinks that way. Lots of experts, when asked why Humphrey did it, answered, "God only knows."

I can just hear St. Peter saying, "Look, Boss, all the reports are finally in and we've definitely confirmed a malfunction in model WH-10C."

"What do you mean all water damage?" He was in the Sacramento River... yeah, well you didn't make it deep enough in spots.

"I know Salt Lake City is in that direction but we don't have any of that model there and the lake is too far inland."

"No, besides the Mormons would take it as a moral victory. Remember the

THE TEXAS EXPERIENCE

The Search for The Fabulous

In 1528, the ill-fated Spanish expedition to "La Florida," consisting of five homemade boats, was shipwrecked on the coast of Texas. This landing on the "Isle of Mathado," (most likely Galveston Island), marked the first recorded European intrusion into the present state of Texas. Of about 300

Spaniards who survived, historian

William Griggs recounts, only four men eventually lived through sickness and encounters with hostile coastal Indians.

These four, Alvar Nunez Cabeza de

Vaca, Andres Dorantes de Carranza,

Alonso del Castillo Maldonado, and Estevanico, a black slave of Dorantes', lived among the Texas Indians for nearly eight years, acting as healers and medicine men. Traveling from tribe to tribe, the four eventually made their way through Texas back to Spanish settlements on the east coast of New

Spain, or what is now Mexico.

It was Cabeza de Vaca who perpetuated rumors of seven cities of gold on the frontier. New Spain Viceroy

Antonio de Mendoza purchased

Estevanico from Dorantes and sent him as a guide for Friar Marcos de Niza, who was to make a preliminary search for the seven cities. Estevanico was killed by Pueblo Indians, but Friar Marcos returned to Mexico more convinced than ever that the legendary riches did indeed exist.

To locate and claim the wealth that he was sure could be found, Mendoza appointed Francisco Vasquez de Coronado, Governor of New Galicia, to lead an expedition into the unknown country in the North. The small army of 1,000 men began their journey at the small Mexican town of Compostela in February, 1540. Traveling north with

1,500 horses and mules, the largest

European expedition ever to penetrate the region conquered pueblo after pueblo, devastating the Indians with more powerful military tactics.

Historian David Weber notes that Coronado called upon the Pueblo Indians to "acknowledge the Catholic Church as the ruler and superior of the whole world, and the high priest called the Pope, and in his name the king and queen of Spain." He promised kind treatment to those who acquiesced and war and slavery to those who resisted.

Coronado lived up to his promise with the hundreds of Pueblo who resisted.

Some historians believe that the desire to conquer, to gain wealth and power, took root. Indeed, according to

historian Roberto Mario Salomon, the search for "the fabulous" spawned

rich folkloric and historic traditions

among Spanish Mexicans. And for more than three hundred years, Spanish, French, and American adventure traversed the unmapped lands of Tex searching for elusive wealth and power.

Eventually, these quests fueled the western development of the North American frontier and the permanent settlements that resulted.

STAMPEDE By Jerry Palen

"I'll bet he doesn't chase any more corn augers for awhile."

Pueblos conspired with the Plains Indian whom the Spanish called "The Turk" to lead the expedition east out of Pueblo country in search of a land called

Quivira. "El Turco" convinced the Spanish that they would find great wealth there. After a Mass of Thanksgiving in Palo Duro Canyon, they continued the search for gold, moving into present-day Kansas. They did find Quivira. But it was only a modest Wichita Indian village and did not hold treasures of gold.

Disheartened, the expedition turned south and headed back to Mexico tormenting and executing "The Turk" for his trickery along the way. Coronado reported to the King of Spain, "I have done all that I could possibly do to serve

Your Majesty and to discover a country where God our Lord might be served and the royal patrimony of Your Majesty increased."

Deep in the "New World," the desire to conquer, to gain wealth and power,

took root. Indeed, according to

historian Roberto Mario Salomon, the

search for "the fabulous" spawned

rich folkloric and historic traditions
